Above Discovery

Jennifer Falkner

A couple coping with a recent loss are tasked with taking stock of a late biology enthusiast's hoard. A support worker dedicated to rehabilitating young women suffering from, among other things, a certain unexpected effect of the climate apocalypse faces a truth that shatters the illusion separating her work and her personal life. An archaeologist formerly working in Syria struggles with her decision to flee from unrest, while the people she has left behind face an uncertain fate.

In Jennifer Falkner's richly imagined first collection, past and present glancingly converge, making the familiar outlines of myth, history, and everyday life seem suddenly strange. With spare, elegant prose, Falkner introduces the reader to those whose narratives are written in the language of empty space. Above Discovery is a stunning debut collection.

Jennifer Falkner lives in Ottawa, on the traditional, unceded territory of the Algonquin Anishinabeg First Nation. She has degrees in ancient history, and currently works as a library technician. Her stories have won the HWA/Dorothy Dunnett Short Story competition, the Retreat West Short Story Contest, and many others. She is the author of the novella Susanna Hall, Her Book, inspired by the life of Shakespeare's daughter.

Cattle

Winnifred Eaton

A novel from the dark heart of early twentieth-century Alberta, featuring a new introduction by Lily Cho.

A bully cattle rancher upends the lives of everyone he encounters and a pandemic makes those lives even more precarious. A full century after its first publication, Cattle remains a story of brutality. A curious Canadian mixture of Hardy and Steinbeck, Cattle is built on the deep contradictions of a settler ideology, asking readers to not look away from the many modes of violence bound up in Canadian history.

Winnifred Eaton Babcock Reeve (1875–1954) was a popular early Asian North American author, journalist, screenwriter and playwright whose best known works were published under the pen-name Onoto Watanna, a controversial persona that she assumed for over two decades.

Lily Cho is an associate professor of English at York University.

County Terrior

Edited by Mylène Bouilly & Norm Nehmetallah

Photographs by Kassandra Melnyk

Prince Edward County has emerged as one of Canada's premiere wine regions, and County Terrior explores the winemakers and vineyards behind the region's explosive growth. With candid interviews and stunning photographs of over 20 wineries, County Terrior reveals the secrets and stories behind each winery's success.

From the evocative narratives of multi-generational vintners to the techniques propelling new wineries to international recognition, there's a surprise at every turn in these intimate portraits of PEC's fascinating and eclectic mix of winemakers.

Royalties from sales of the book will support a Prince Edward County charity to be named at a later date.

Mylène Bouilly and Norm Nehmetallah are the managing editor and publisher of Invisible Publishing, respectively.

Kassandra Melnyk is a photographer based in Prince Edward County.
